PortScan & Stuff is a lightweight tool that enables you to gather information about the devices connected to your network. With just one click you can scan all the available ports on your PC. The app will then list the devices connected to your network, their respective IP addresses, etc. You can also ping the devices and check if your connection is optimal or if the device is connected to your network via router. Perform Whois queries The app also includes a Whois tab where you can quickly check any available information about an IP address or domain name. This will enable you to check if a domain name is registered to an IP address or if the domain has been taken. The Whois tab also enables you to perform some useful actions such as get the server's name or MX records, modify the DNS records or block domains you dislike. The function can also be used to protect your privacy as the Whois tab allows you to keep your identity secret by registering your domain. Monitor your IP traffic The application also includes a tab where you can view the IP traffic generated by the devices that are connected to your network. Thus, you can easily check the protocols used by those devices or get some detailed information about them such as ports opened, type of software used, etc. Perform a basic port scan The app also includes a basic port scan tab where you can scan the open ports on your PC.
