this is a complex and powerful software solution that will help you. 0:43:20 Use design, graphics, and design software because it's IT, but IT isn't really measured by the number of people who create it. And mainly, I say that I want to turn IT into something more than just a powerful tool. And if you don't agree with that, then you have to look at what happens when you spend many millions of dollars to implement a project that is 99% not working, because in order to do something like what I'm talking about you need to run a lot of people to develop a really good product. This is not possible with the current level of technology. And not only is it possible, but it always happens. And if you want to build an IT project and do not make money on it, then this will be the last thing you can do. Another misconception that can be highlighted is the contempt for outside funding. It can lead to great success, but not always. Let's think for a moment about international funding for software development projects, for example. What was the dumbest thing (because it is a delusion) and what I faced as an analyst was the constant talk about how no one can ever see, feel or measure what I cannot do. But I can. This kind of thinking is based on "if" concepts (that's why I make so much money on this), and they were invented by mediocrity. I won't name them so they don't get offended, because it's very inconvenient if everyone finds out that I have ever worked for these people. But you can imagine some well-known scientist, or Wall Street financial analyst, who is trying to implement a similar project at the present time. This, of course, is not something he could do with. For this reason, this is not a very good approach. This business model that I see today is significantly different from what was practiced in the 90s and zero years. And so I think that for the new generation of entrepreneurs who are now in the center of the field for development, this innovation is the best investment. Even if they don't make a profit, they will get a good education. I'm sure a lot of programmers, scientists, entrepreneurs, as well as computer security consultants and the like, will find new jobs. And I also want to say that such a model is not only the best investment for business, but
