"Aerial Style Shots" — a new feature allowing players to control the flight of their shots from overhead — is also included with FIFA 22 and plays an important role in creating dynamic, higher quality dribbling and goal-scoring moves. The full list of gameplay changes introduced in FIFA 22 is as follows: Hyper Motion We're making a real-world gameplay advantage from every player in FIFA. Simply put, we're using data from players from a full football match to significantly improve player control and speed. When you play as a player, you'll be able to make faster, more correct decisions and runs with superior control and precision. We've also added motion capture data to each player so the ball moves in a similar way as the real-life player. This enables the ball to react more naturally to the player's movements. FIFA 22 introduces "Hyper Motion", which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match. When you play as a player, the ball reacts in a similar way as the real-life player. Highlight footage of this feature in action can be found here: Aerial Style Shots To breathe life into free kicks, throw-ins and rebounds, we're using high-fidelity physics to create these all-new shot types: Clean Style Shots In addition to the ability to combine accurate top and side volleys in build-up play, a well-placed shot from the sides will behave like a regular shot — meaning it will follow the curvature of the goal and have the force to go in. Deep Style Shots Deep shots will be more accurate, and follow the curvature of the goal more accurately. Drive Style Shots Driven balls will speed up after hitting the ground, with a lower curve and more accuracy, particularly on angled shots. Control Style Shots Skill shots won't fly as far or be as accurate, but will regain more speed and be easier to control. Other new dribbling and goal-scoring elements include: - Controlled Dribble (C-Dribble). In game, the dribbler can carry the ball with control or create speed using the C-Dribble pass. In game, this will be

What's new:

- REAL FOOTBALL MOVEMENT - Huge thanks to the 22 players (see 20 KIDS below) who are helping us power FIFA 22 gameplay. With the help of their movements, we've now got superb, real-life reactions - movements and on-ball actions of every player during a full match (i.e., lengthy animation sequences) that's something no other game can compete with.
- BUILDER TRAINING - New Training Centre revamp saves energy and ensures you only receive High/Mid/Low ratings, depending on the time you spend with the training.
- PASSING/SHOOTING ANIMATIONS - Subtle improvements to the way that animations work on both the ball and receiver - ball physics are now more realistic, you can see the contact point of the ball with the receiver, and the pass direction can now be retrieved.
- 'IN THE MOMENT' GESTURES - New Real Player Motion animation technology allows us to show certain gestures and actions on ball impact, immediately before the player performs them, to recreate what you'd actually do in real life. This gives the ball a unique feel and also helps make it feel more alive - all player touches on the ball now give the player more tactile feedback and a fuller overall experience.
- BALL TORPEDOES - Improved shooting techniques - many of them will have been worked on by the player himself on the training ground and in-game - make sure to see the trajectory of your shots and decide whether to maximize the shot angle and trajectory first, or to use the remaining time and run into space for a more powerful shot.
- FOCUS POINT FEATURES - New feature allows you to make all your shots always on target, focusing on where the ball is before the shot, and using actual player training data to get your brain into the right position for your next move or action. The shots from some of the top players have been reworked to further add to realism - have a look at the shots of Brazil's Neymar at the World Cup and you'll have a better idea of what we've done.
