The surface patches were divided into four categories (surface frequency, surface length, surface patch volume, surface patch area). The similarity is defined by the number of similar surface patches and a normalized ratio of the corresponding surface patches. The novel and effective dataset was created on the basis of available protein-protein interface data. On the basis of dataset, two measures were compared, the patch-based similarity and an existing similarity measure based on the surface residue contact distance. In our experiments, the patch-based similarity measure showed a good performance (AUC value 0.80) in SVM classifier based on three feature

Riley had been involved in many more physical confrontations than I had, and so that particular instance was one of hers. But it had still been traumatizing. We kept discussing the situation, trying to figure out what could have done so much damage to her inner self. We theorized that she had started to treat herself like a lesser person. With such violent images being circulated among her peers, she could have lost all confidence in her capabilities. Or the image that she had become like the rest of her class-eating, drinking, and destroying-a deformed and defensive version of herself. Or maybe she was insecure about the way she looked and wanted to feel better about herself in the eyes of others. Or maybe she was just confused. All these factors could have contributed to her injury. Because I am the mother, I was concerned about how she was doing. I asked her if she was eating, and
